

Dear CBA South-East members,

Saturday 7th May marked the final CBA South-East workshop of 2016, being run by Luke Barber on post-medieval ceramics. I have to say that our first year of running these workshops has far exceeded our expectations. We have had an outstanding turn-out by members, with some events being fully booked, leaving us in the difficult position of having to turn eager attendees away. We will soon assess the structure and content of the programme, taking on board members' feedback, to see how we can improve next year's schedule. This may involve adding extra sessions to the schedule to satisfy demand, while other subjects not covered this year will certainly form part of the programme. If you have any thoughts on future workshops, please let us know.

The second year of the equally successful Site and Town Tours also kicked-off recently, with attendees being treated to a trip to the stunning South Downs landscape at Slindon. Alice Thorne gave an excellent overview of the current LiDAR survey work being undertaken as part of the Secrets of the High Woods project, which is revealing fascinating new insights into the archaeology of the National Park. After lunch, Chichester District Archaeologist, James Kenny, led the team around the historic city, highlighting remnants of its Roman and medieval legacy in the landscape and the architecture.

On a final note, full details of this year's CBA South-East Annual Conference will soon be published on our website. The date has been changed from that recently published in the Newsletter to Saturday 19th of November (NOT Sunday the 20th). The theme for this year's event is Medieval Palaces and Parks, and we are pleased to announce that Dr Amanda Richardson from the University of Chichester will be our keynote speaker. Please don't leave it too late to buy tickets!

Chair, CBA South-East

Conferences and symposiums

Saturday, July 30th 2016 (09:30-17:00)

Eastbourne Natural History & Archaeological Society – Eastbourne Archaeology Symposium 2016 “Eastbourne Urban Medieval Excavation Project 1977 – 1984”

By the late seventies Eastbourne had produced archaeological material from most eras but not the medieval. The obvious target was an open space in Church Street opposite St Marys Parish Church, which was known to have, at the latest, Norman origins. The Symposium will introduce delegates to an extensive excavation that revealed evidence for the origins of medieval Eastbourne. There will be insights into work carried out at the medieval Jesus House which housed the Guild of the Brotherhood of Jesus, the vicarage and also look at the Lamb Inn and Star Brewery site which occupied the same general area.

Tickets £10. See http://www.eastbournearchaeology.org.uk/?page_id=253 for booking form.

Friday, June 10th 2016 (11:00-17:00)

Surrey Archaeological Society Prehistoric Group –

Down Farm, Cranborne Chase

A visit to Down Farm on Cranborne Chase has been arranged, which will consist of a walk around Fir Tree field to see the ‘great shaft’ – a geological feature which produced a remarkable sequence of deposits spanning 2500 years from 4400-2000BC. After lunch, a slightly longer walk will take in a dramatic piece of the Ackling Dyke Roman road and restored Neolithic henge monuments and house footprint on Wyke Down, followed by a visit to the museum and the displays of local archaeological finds. Martin Green, the owner, will escort the group and will not make a charge for this, but welcomes a donation to his favourite charity.

Research opportunities

Liss Archaeology – The Colemore Project excavations in Hampshire June 2016 and September/October 2016

In 2016, two excavations are planned. In June the targets are features seen as geophysical anomalies in the vicinity of the main building that may indicate further rooms/habitation and will take the format of evaluation trenches plus test pits. The September/October excavation target is likely to be determined upon the results of the spring excavation; a large trench is planned. A further series of geophysical surveys are also planned for 2016 plus a local village test pit project in Stroud near Petersfield, field-walking, excavation elsewhere and more!

Volunteers from all walks of life are welcome to take part. Full training offered. In addition to excavation, finds processing, sieving, soil analysis, recording, planning and drawing plus surveying take place to professional standards. Local schools take part in on-site archaeology education; outreach education also available. Students are encouraged to experience community-based, volunteer archaeology with a friendly group of like-minded people. Taster days are available. For further information, please contact us lissarchaeology@gmail.com

Sussex School of Archaeology – Plumpton Roman Villa, Sussex: Excavation and Field School

Saturday, June 18th 2016 – Saturday, July 30th 2016

A training excavation at Plumpton, Sussex will include six 5-day Excavation Techniques courses. Each will provide a 'hands-on' and theory introduction to archaeological excavation, including: basic surveying and geophysics, excavation methods, written records, planning and section drawing, photography, environmental archaeology, finds processing and Health and Safety. This course is suitable for beginners, those with limited experience, A Level Archaeology students, people thinking of studying archaeology at university, and undergraduates. Tuition fees £150 per 5-day course. 1-day Saturday courses comprise: 'Taster' excavation days; Planning & Section Drawing; Total Station Survey; and Environmental Archaeology. Fees £40 per day.

Volunteering opportunities (i.e. for those with some prior experience) are available from £25 for a 5-day week to a maximum of £50 for the whole season.

Details of local accommodation and camping are available. Contact The Sussex School of Archaeology (www.sussexarchaeology.org), info@sussexarchaeology.co.uk, Tel. 01323 811785)

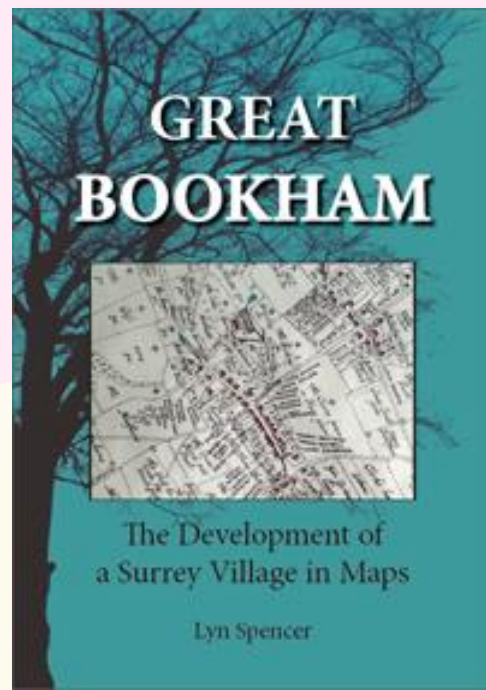

Publications

Great Bookham - The Development of a Surrey Village in Maps

Lyn Spencer (2016)

This new publication in the Surrey Archaeological Society's Villages Project records the growth and development of Great Bookham village in the centre of Surrey. The information is presented through a series of maps from the medieval period through to the early 19th century. There are detailed maps and diagrams explaining the geology and geomorphology of the area and documentary sources are used to illustrate the rural nature of the village. A conjectural map, based on the earliest map of Great Bookham, provides a road layout for 1100 and then builds on this to show how the village developed over the centuries.

A4: 86 pages, 35 maps, 26 illustrations and photographs. The book is available at a cost of £10. Please contact: Sales Secretary L&DLHS, Leatherhead Museum, 64 Church Street, Leatherhead, KT22 8DP. Please add UK postage of £2.60 unless otherwise stated. Cheques should be made payable to L&DLHS.

The Archaeology of Canterbury New Series Vol VII. Medieval Town and Augustinian Friary: Settlement c 1325–1700. Canterbury Whitefriars Excavations 1999–2004

Alison Hicks (2015)

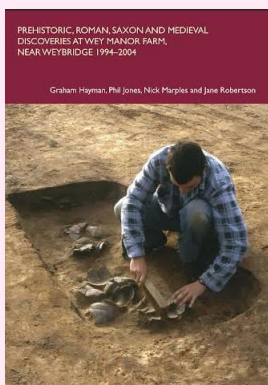

The first of four books on excavations in the Whitefriars area of Canterbury, this report describes the development of the Augustinian friary from c 1325 to its demise following the Dissolution. Combining stratigraphic analysis with documentary sources, environmental and artefact assemblages, the book seeks to illustrate the history of the friary and its immediate environs and gain an understanding of the people who lived and worked there.

Prehistoric, Roman, Saxon and Medieval discoveries at Wey Manor Farm, near Weybridge 1994–2004, SpoilHeap Publications, Occ Paper 6

Graham Hayman, Phil Jones, Nick Marples and Jane Robertson, Surrey County Archaeological Unit

Occasional paper 6 brings together a series of archaeological excavations between 1994 and 2004 in the Wey Manor Farm quarry that revealed features and artefacts spanning almost the whole of the Holocene period. The volume includes full details of the excavation results, specialist reports (especially on pottery by the late Phil Jones and an important analysis of the flintwork by Nick Marples), and an overall review setting the work in context.

A Bronze Age ring-ditch and Mesolithic and medieval activity at Waitrose, South St, Dorking, Surrey, SpoilHeap Publications, Occ Paper 7

Tom Munnery, Surrey County Archaeological Unit

Occasional paper 7 presents the results of archaeological work at the Waitrose, Dorking site between July and November 2013. The volume includes full details of the excavation results, specialist reports (especially on flintwork by Nick Marples), and an overall review setting the work in context.

These latest volumes in the SpoilHeap series are available from the Surrey History Centre and at its online shop (<http://www.surreycc.gov.uk/heritage-culture-and-recreation/archives-and-history/surrey-history-centre/surrey-heritage-shop>).
